A Collaborative Effort: AWA and ACS

Earlier this year when ACS received a special grant for food security for vulnerable populations, AWA participated in the food distribution with several flights to remote villages. AWA-Alaska enjoys a mutually beneficial relationship with Adventist Community Services. We praise God for the opportunity to serve people in need through this connection.

The Fairbanks area ACS has acquired an airport lot at the Metro Industrial Airport. As funds are available, a warehouse is being built to store stocks of shelf-stable food resources, furniture, beds, bedding, clothing, medical supplies, personal protective gear, and other critical materials.

AWA-AK is supporting this warehouse development because of its operational goals which we share. ACS has access to critical resources, and AWA has the resources to transport and distribute them.

The ACS warehouse last year (2019) achieved a roof and doors so it has arrived as a place of dry and secure storage. It is now at about 85% of capacity.

This summer construction season the goal has been to get electrical service installed for lighting, heating, and security systems. As funds become available insulation, interior wiring, and exterior siding is being planned for. These projects will cost approximately $20,000. With your donation of $100, we can be on the way to completing the project. Please call our offices or go online to help. We know God has a plan for this partnership.

Although the property is not large there is enough room to park several aircraft next to the warehouse. Within the next few days we plan to move our mission aircraft to this location. With electrical service to the building we will be able preheat our aircraft as needed for winter flights. This is extremely important! Cold and ice can cause treacherous conditions for aircraft.

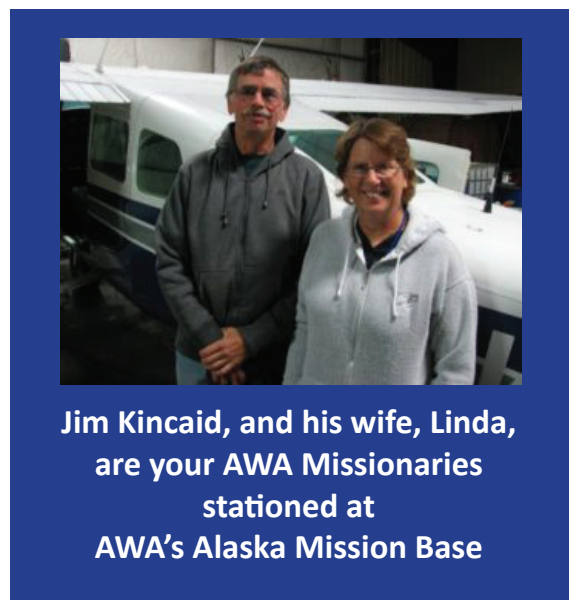

The electrical service entrance required the installation of a power pole, with underground wiring to the building. Fortunately, our project received final approval this week. With winter coming, the ground will begin to freeze in days, so we praise God for this blessing.
