

God Presents New Opportunities

At times discouragement has a way of settling into our lives. When things are delayed, as in the plans for our survey trip to Nicaragua, it can cause doubt and confusion. I have struggled with these things at times as we have been planning on going into the mission field for quite a while.

God tells us in His word that He is not the author of confusion (1 Corinthians 14:33) and that we should not be wavering in our faith (James 1:6)

I had left my regular job in anticipation of our being deployed and in order to focus on garnering support for our family once we are in country. I was doing work cutting trees to have monthly income for the family's needs, but that had tapered off.

I was struggling with these thoughts and praying on my knees when I got a group text from a disaster relief organization called Gideon Rescue Company. I met them last year at a conference and was talking to them about how aviation could support their mission and how AWA could meet that need. The text I received said there was a storm coming and that they needed people on the Gulf to help. I replied and long story short... I am here in Florida, driving a Mack truck, scooping up storm debris with an attached loading crane. What's great is I'm more directly working for a tree company and getting paid to help down here. What a blessing!

What a blessing God has given! We are in a beautiful place right on the Gulf and meeting new people. This opportunity was divinely provided for us to reach out and help people and witness for God's Kingdom. With the people I work with as well as local folks. We get to share how God has been leading in our lives and our goal of serving the people of Nicaragua with AWA. One thing is certain in all of this - and that is that God provides for His children!

Jesus, Our Role Model

When we have the opportunity to reflect God's character, it is a great privilege. We took a family picture next to a statute of Desmond Doss while passing through Tennessee. He is considered a great role model for the Adventist faith for his trusting sacrificing spirit. Jesus is our example in all things, and when we reflect His character, it helps others to see what Jesus is doing in our lives.

God bless you!
