

GUITAR CLASSES BEGIN AT THE PATHFINDER CLUB IN MABARUMA, GUYANA

By Pastor Leo | Guyana AWA Missionary

On September 7, 2025, the Pathfinder Club of the Seventh-day Adventist Church in Mabaruma, Guyana, officially launched guitar lessons as part of its specialties program. The initiative has quickly gained attention and enthusiasm among the young Pathfinders, who are eager to learn music and develop their talents for service and worship.

The classes began with a strong turnout, demonstrating the keen interest of the youth in mastering this beautiful instrument. However, with many students and only two guitars available, the need for additional instruments has become very clear. To meet the growing demand and provide every student with the opportunity to practice, the club anticipates purchasing at least five more guitars in the near future. These are approximately $100 each. We need to raise $500 to buy the new guitars.

The introduction of guitar as a Pathfinder specialty not only nurtures musical skills but also strengthens fellowship, discipline, and dedication among the youth. It is expected that as the program expands, music will play an even greater role in uplifting church services, community outreach, and the personal growth of each participant.

This new chapter marks another milestone for the Pathfinder Club in Mabaruma, as it continues to invest in the holistic development of its members—physically, mentally, and spiritually.
